Assembly Will Hear De Gaulle Tomorrow

Demands 400 Votes as Premier to Make Sure Of Overwhelming Margin

Paris — (P) — Gen Charles De Gaulle served notice on French political leaders today that he will go before the national assembly tomorrow seeking full powers as premier. De Gaulle gave politicians who have not yet agreed to vote for him just five hours to make up their minds. The general set the deadline after a showdown meeting with leaders of all French political parties except the communists which ended about noon. He called them back at 5 p. m. for their final answers. He is demanding from them that he get some 400 votes in the assembly to provide an overwhelming majority against the 150 communist votes certain to be cast in opposition. The socialist party still seemed to be holding the key to whether De Gaulle will legally receive from parliament the sweeping authority he wants. Socialist Caucus

Riots Raging in Ceylon Regions

Guns, Ammunition Stolen in Raid and 3 Persons are Slain

Colombo, Ceylon — (P) — Language riots raged in eastern and northern Ceylon today. The government reported guns and ammunition stolen in a raid in northern Ceylon and three persons were killed as police moved against rioting mobs in the east. Premier Solomon Bandaranaike ordered 39 persons taken into preventive custody in this capital. The nation has been under a state of emergency the last five days as the result of Sinhalese clashes with the Tamil minority. A government spokesman expressed concern about the outbreaks in northern Ceylon as well as in Batticaloa in the east. This was the second straight day of disturbances in Batticaloa.

Customs House Attacked — In northern Ceylon, a government spokesman said a customs house at Valvettilai was attacked and two rifles, three shotguns and an unknown quantity of ammunition were stolen. He also announced that the army has taken control of refugee camps in Colombo and that gatherings of more than 50 persons at any one time have been banned. The government warned demonstrators it would take stern measures and promised that a security net would be placed over the trouble spots.

Ex-Commander of State Spanish War Vets Dies — Fond du Lac — (P) — Shirley D. Boreham, 85, a past Wisconsin commander of the Spanish-American War Veterans, collapsed and died Friday while attending Memorial day service at Roosevelt Junior High school.

In the buzzing corridors of the national assembly—where the deputies huddled although they were not in session—the names of a prospective cabinet for De Gaulle began to spread. A De Gaulle supporter said the general intended to name an old hand as foreign minister, Catholic popular republican movement (MRP) Deputy George Bidault. The appointment of Bidault, a longtime backer of European unity would soothe opposition to De Gaulle in those quarters which fear he may lead France down a lonely isolated road.

2 Unknowns Put in Crypts At Arlington

BY ELTON C. FAY
Arlington, Va. — (P) — With pomp and pageantry ended, the unknown warriors of World War II and Korea were at rest today on a hill overlooking the capital of the nation for which they died. Under yesterday's warm sun, the two unknowns—representing all the nameless dead of the most recent wars—were brought to the tomb where for almost 37 years the unknown soldier of World War I has slept alone. There were marching troops, the subdued music of bands, artillery salutes and a fly-over of jets. Prayers were said and the president of the United States bestowed medals of honor on the two nameless Americans.

115,000 Line Route — An estimated 115,000 persons lined the route of the funeral procession. Thousands more packed the amphitheater at the Arlington National cemetery and stood in tribute as the twin bronze caskets were placed above open crypts. As the lights of Washington twinkled on across the Potomac, the nine body bearers filled out the plaza and drew to attention. Behind them stood perhaps half a hundred spectators. The superintendent of the national cemetery and his assistant stepped forward. Each unfurled chains restraining the caskets. In the dying light, the two bronze coffins sank slowly into the crypts flanking the tomb of the unknown soldier. In silence, the uniformed body bearers stood at hand salute, the two civilian officials each placed his hand over his heart. At a low spoken command, the file of bearers turned. Their heels clacked in unison on the stone floor. The few onlookers drifted away down the darkened drives.

UAW members at three GM plants worked without a contract yesterday. Others will do the same in all 126 company plants Monday after the Memorial holiday ends. Both management and union termed the Ford and Chrysler negotiations deadlocked and each accused the other of refusing to budge. Contracts at Ford and Chrysler expire Sunday midnight. The contract at GM expired Thursday midnight.

Extension Refused — The industry's Big Three have offered to extend the old contracts two years. The UAW refused this. The GM extension would have included built-in wage increase totaling 16 cents an hour—a 7-cent productivity increase immediately, a 2-cent cost-of-living allowance increase immediately and a 7-cent productivity increase next year.

GM said this week that its 10,000 non-union employees would get both the immediate increase. It also said salaried personnel would get the equivalent. The average hourly wage of auto production workers is about $2.40. GM estimates that its production workers get an average of $2.45 an hour. GM set the terms for the no-contract work. Generally the terms follow the contract that expired except UAW membership no longer is a condition of employment.

Cross Burned at Judge's Home

Signed Order to End Segregation on New Orleans Buses

New Orleans — (P) — An 8-foot wooden cross soaked with kerosene was burned during the night on the lawn of Federal District Judge J. Skelly Wright who signed the orders to end segregation on the New Orleans buses. Judge Wright blamed the incident on "just some one looking for publicity" but he added, "I figured it had to be a Ku Klux Klan thing. It wasn't done by an amateur." The judge said his wife found the cross smoldering on their lawn when she came home from the opera just before midnight. Segregation on public transportation facilities officially ended in New Orleans at 12:01 a. m. today without any unusual incidents reported up into the morning. The U. S. supreme court's decision outlawing such segregated seating on city buses and street cars went into effect at one minute past midnight. Police said they had no reports of any violence and spokesmen for New Orleans Public Service Inc., which operates the city's transportation system, said all lines were running without any disturbances. The city's final attempt to circumvent a U. S. supreme court ruling outlawing separate seating on buses and street cars failed yesterday when Judge Wright denied a motion for stay of action.

Detroit — (P) — The United Auto Workers union sought to break deadlocked negotiations with Ford and Chrysler today while completing plans for some 300,000 General Motors employees to work without a contract.

Racial Clash in Pennsylvania

About 500 Take Part in Outbreak In Amusement Park

Chalfont, Pa. — (P) — Negroes and whites tangled in a vicious hour-long battle last night that marred the calm of Memorial day picnicking at Forest Amusement park. Roughly 500 participated in the fighting that overflowed the 150 acres of park grounds. The battlers, mostly teenagers, swung baseball bats and tire irons. They hurled beer and pop bottles, bits of glass and rocks. Some cut down small trees and used them as weapons. Scores of women and children among some 2,000 in the park screamed in terror as they sought shelter. Many fainted. Police in this tiny southeastern Pennsylvania community, 25 miles south of Philadelphia, were unable to cope with the rioters. State police and officers from surrounding communities were summoned.

Dozen Hospitalized — Ambulances carried more than a dozen to hospitals. Some had broken bones, others had stab wounds, severe bruises and cuts. The wild melee climaxed a series of small fights throughout the day between guests of Delta Phi Tau, a Philadelphia Negro sorority on a holiday outing, police said, and white visitors to the sprawling park. Richard Lusso, operator of the park, termed the fighting "purely racial."

Miss Lavinia Golden, 17-year-old West Philadelphia high school senior who identified herself as business manager of the sorority, said the first incident occurred shortly after the group of 372 arrived by chartered train in the morning. "A white boy and a Negro boy got into a fist fight," she said adding she didn't know the reason. There was confusion as to when, where and how the main battle erupted. But Chalfont Police Chief William Hamilton said it apparently began on the concrete dance floor near the center of the park.

Weekend Toll Mounts to 204 in Nation; 135 Die in Holiday Traffic

Mrs. Alvin Brei, 57, 348 S. John street, Kimberly, was one of four persons killed on state highways as the Memorial weekend toll started to mount Friday. One person drowned in the state. In the nation during the first two days of the long weekend, 204 persons died accidentally, 135 in traffic, 45 by drowning and 24 in other accidents. Mrs. Brei was pronounced dead on arrival at Shawano hospital after she was thrown from the car her husband was driving about 4:40 Friday afternoon. The Brei car skidded broadside into a car driven by Rue-ben Draeger, route 2, Marion, as Brei attempted to pass another car on Highway 29 about 14 miles west of Shawano, according to Shawano county traffic police. The car was thrown into a ditch and burst into flames, which were extinguished by the Shawano fire department. Mr. and Mrs. William Buss, Marion, passengers in the Draeger car, and Brei were hospitalized in Shawano. Draeger escaped injuries. Motorcycle Killed

The five accidental deaths reported Friday were two more than were reported on Memorial day last year. The traffic deaths boosted the total in the state for the year to 262, compared with 295 on Memorial day last year. Thousands See Cardinal's Body

Body Lies in State Until Funeral Services Tuesday

Chicago — (P) — Chicagoans paid their final visits to Samuel Cardinal Stritch as he lay serene in death today amid familiar surroundings of high-vaulted Holy Name cathedral. A procession of mourners which began late yesterday past the white-mitered prelate's body had grown to 27,000, police estimated, when it was interrupted for the first of a series of special masses this morning. The lines of people forming to file past the bier stretched outside the cathedral into State and Superior streets. At the time their motorcycle crashed in Washington county. Memorial Day Audience Told To Work for Better America

Kaukauna — A large Memorial day audience was told to strive 365 days a year for a better America thus honoring the men who gave their lives to preserve our heritage. The speaker was Carl Batcha, Veterans of Foreign Wars State Loyalty Day chairman.

Batcha told the audience we as Americans must do more than assemble once each year to honor our fallen comrades although it is a custom which must always be preserved. He recalled the Memorial days of his youth and how each year they began to take on more meaning until finally the real spirit of the day came to him while looking at the graves of his fallen friends in Africa.

He described the men who gave their lives for their country, where they came from, what they did for a living and what they planned for the future. He told how their dying affected the lives of their families including mothers, wives and sometimes children.

Batcha told his audience to work and pray for a lasting peace and for the continued growth and prosperity of our nation, not losing sight of our freedoms which so many men and women have died to preserve.

Reading Club to Be Formed at Public Library

Kaukauna — Registration for the summer reading club will be taken in the children's section of the Kaukauna Library Monday through Friday next week, according to Mrs. Nancy Smith, children's librarian.

Theme of this year's program will center around the history of communications. No book reports will be taken during the first week of registration but youngsters will have the opportunity to report on books read the second week and throughout the summer until August.

As in previous years, all members of the reading club will take part in a picnic and games to conclude the summer activities. The librarian urges children to register for the program and advised them to read a few books very carefully rather than try to read a lot of books without getting much from them.

Youngsters must have finished the second grade to be eligible to take part in the program. No maximum age has been set but very few high school age students sign for the club as their books are not located in the children's section. The librarian will help members pick out books suitable for their age level.

Follow Example Of Famous Men, Attorney Says

Speaks in Memorial Day Services at New London

New London — Examples of activities of the great men in American history were used by O. W. Capener, a New London attorney, as a standard after which to model our lives Friday morning during Memorial Day services at the Floral Hill cemetery.

The speaker stressed that Patrick Henry's "I care not what course others may take but as for me, give me liberty or give me death," contained a monument of his understanding of individual liberty.

Capener explained that Patrick Henry did not advocate mob or group action in his speech, but rather recognized that each and every person has a right to decide for himself when he said "I care not what course other may take."

Must Guard Liberty

He stressed that our liberties must be guarded by taking an active interest in the affairs of government, by voting and by writing to representatives in government to let "them know of our interest."

"We, the ordinary citizens, shape the destiny of the country and it is up to us to be alert citizens to preserve the liberties which were given to us to protect," he added.

Emil Gehrke, master of ceremonies, opened the service by asking the Washington High school band, under the direction of Maurice Bleick, and the mixed chorus, under the direction of Donald Douglas, to lead the assembly in the singing and playing of the National Anthem.

The Rev. Alfred C. Davis, pastor of the First Congregational church, led the invocation and Linda Dreier and Tommy Krostue placed the cross and wreath on the veteran's grave, while the mixed chorus sang "Nearer My God to Thee."

Gettysburg Address
Jerry Jones recited the "Gettysburg Address" and the choir sang "Vacant Chair." Iver Rude recited "In Flanders Field," followed by "America's Answer" by Don Rex.

Special guests were then introduced before the main address by Capener. The service was concluded with the benediction by the Rev. Mr. Davis and the firing of a salute by the American Legion firing squad. Services at the cemetery followed a procession through the business district, which was preceded by a water service for the sailors who lost their lives in service. The water service were held at the Taft park.

The Merchants have an exhibition game scheduled at 8:15 Thursday night when they will be at home to Valley Fair of the Fox River Valley league. It will be played at the Hatten park stadium.

Water Ceremony Opens Memorial Day Service

Eighth District Legion Commander Tells History of Observance to Honor War Dead

Clintonville — A water ceremony conducted by the Veterans of Foreign Wars and auxiliary at the Main street bridge opened the Memorial day observance here Friday. The high school band directed by Robert Swan played, "Nearer My God to Thee."

The parade then proceeded along Main street to Graceland cemetery for the program. Units in the parade were the American Legion color guard, the National Guards, the Senior and Junior High school bands, Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts, and cars carrying dignitaries.

Commander Talks

Ald. Robert Moreland was chairman of the Memorial day arrangements. The Rev. Edgar E. Barg, pastor of Zion Lutheran church, Embarrass, gave the invocation and benediction, and on the graves of two Union soldiers who lay in the same London, American Legion burial ground. The story was carried by a New York newspaper, and other communities, both south and north, followed this example.

Gen. John A. Logan, then commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, issued a general order to make decoration of war graves an annual custom on May 30 of each year by members of the GAR and its auxiliary organization. He chose May 30 as the date because it marked the discharge of the last Union soldier from war service.

The high school band played "America, the Beautiful." Members of the VFW and its auxiliary participated in a ceremony honoring the unknown dead and the placing of wreaths.

The national anthem was played and the National guard conducted the firing squad ceremony. "Taps" was played by John Olen, after which the Rev. Mr. Berg gave the benediction.

Following the program at Clintonville, the units adjourned Embarrass for a similar ceremony at the cemetery there.

Departments

Clean Up Oil

New London — Members of the New London fire department and street department were called out early Friday morning when a tank truck spilled oil in the intersections of N. Water and N. Pearl streets and Beacon avenue and Mill street.

The firemen were called out at 12:55 Friday morning and spent one and one-half hours washing down the streets. A crew of street department employees later sprinkled sand on the oil.

The leaking oil tank truck apparently passed through the city without being detected.

The slick on the street was responsible for an accident about 12:55 at Mill street and Beacon avenue. Donald Quaintance, 413 E. Quincy street, and Robert F. Mladý, Arlington, Ill., were both going north on Mill street and turning west on to Beacon avenue.

Relaxation Is a Unique Gift for Father's Day

One of the most unusual and practical gifts available for Dad this year is the gift of relaxation.

In this hectic age, where tension, stress and strain are every day problems for Dad at the office or in the factory, methods of relaxation are taking on a more important role than ever before.

The newest innovation in the field of relaxation for Dad (and his family) is an unusual line of cyclo-massage equipment developed by the Niagara Therapy Corporation of Adamsville, Pa., and available locally at Niagara Cycle-Massage, Valley Fair Shopping center, Appleton.

This cyclo - massage equipment, which makes an excellent Father's Day gift for Dad, is available in various forms for use in the office, at home, or on the road. The equipment is designed specifically for relaxation and the relief of tension and fatigue. Into each piece of equipment is built a cyclo-massage motor that provides a gentle and soothing massage. Many years in developing, cyclo-massage action is unique in that it penetrates and soothes tired muscles and tissues.

Special Honor
Niagara Cycle-Massage is pleased to announce that the application for membership in the firm's national Crown Pin Club of America has been approved for William F. Lucus, local sales manager. This honor is awarded only to those who have established an above average sales record with Niagara.

An Automobile Television Set for rear seat viewing that can be removed for operation outside the car has been developed by the Oldsmobile division of General Motors, it was announced recently by the Rector Motor Company, 212 N. Division street, local Oldsmobile dealer. Picture at the top left shows the installed set in a closed position in its compartment built into the rear of the front seat. Picture at lower right displays the set in its viewing position, with the 9-inch screen at a 45-degree angle to the car floor. The portable set is not yet available for sale, Oldsmobile said.

"This unit, although it is a practical production design, is not yet available for sale," had personal experience with Rector's stated Friday. "It is still in the engineering development stage, but it is such a dream, who now are content to sit by the hour watching TV, we know the public will be interested in the progress made to date."

The firm, enthusiastic about the future possibilities of this new development, commented, "In the limited number of test installations of this automobile being used, it is neatly housed in the television set we have in its compartment that matches the evidence that it could be the upholstery in color. A set is removed from the eventually prove a great boon hood above the set is raised, car."

Chief components of this experimental adaptation of television, the XTP-1, are a receiver release knob then permits the with a 9-inch screen housed set to slide outwards from its in the rear of the front seat, compartment. When removed a transistor power supply and from the car, the TV set has a collapsible V-beam aerial a cord for plugging into any mounted on the rear roof just convenient 110-volt AC electric outlet. It also has a two-prong retractable aerial that can be extended several feet.

The TV set has three positions. The set is operated in the automobile by a small power supply unit which converts the 12-volt DC power from the car's battery into AC current of several hundred volts for operating the picture tube. A plug and jack in the rear of the set provide the connection with the power source. Two built-in re-necessary connections when the set is removed from the car.

Buick's Bold New Styling is best illustrated in the rakish lines of the Special convertible, one of four convertibles Buick offers in 1958. Mounted on a 122-inch wheelbase, the Special combines big car luxury and roominess with exceptional performance and maneuverability. Both the new light pitch and varied pitch Dynaflo transmissions and air-ride suspension are available as optional equipment on all Special series models, explains Cloud Buick Co. Inc., local sales and service dealer.

Buick Offers New Lucite Paint on 1958 Models

Five shades of sparkling lucite paint head a parade of 20 colors introduced by Buick on the five series in its 1958 line.

Sixty interior trim combinations in a variety of colors and an assortment of fabrics including Cape Buffalo grain leather are offered also, along with seven different colors in convertible tops.

"The colors and trims we have selected for 1958 give us the most tasteful decor in our history," says Edward T. Ragsdale, general manager of Buick and vice president of General Motors. "They have been selected carefully to complement each other and contribute to the all-around beauty of our styling theme."

The new lucite shades are Polar Mist, Silver Mist, Laurel Mist, Blue Mist and Green Mist. Other new shades available are Desert Beige, Reef Coral, Casino Cream, Light and Dark Turquoise, Warwick Blue, Colonial Blue, Spray Green and Glacier White.

Held over from 1957 because of their popularity are Garnet Red, Seminole Red, Antique Ivory, Hunter Green, Sylvan Grey and Carlsbad Black. Turquoise and grey have been added to the convertible top color choices, which have been limited previously to black, white, tan, blue and green.

Buick's luxurious new Limited series and the Roadmaster 75 series are fitted with the ultimate in interior styling. Convertibles in the two series are trimmed in Cape Buffalo grain leather, with seven combinations available in colors ranging from two shades of blue and green through red, silver and yellow.

Mojave nylon and broadcloth combine with genuine leather in the two-and four-door Riviera as of both the Limited and Roadmaster 75 series, with nylon and leather combinations available in five color schemes and broadcloth and leather in three.

Century and Special series convertible trims are all cordaveen in five color combinations. An assortment of seven trims also is available in Buick's three estate wagons.

Six trim combinations in nylon and cordaveen are offered in the Super series and seven in the Century and Special custom. Standard trims in the Special series feature three combinations of cloth and cordaveen.

De Gaulle's Opportunity

The assumption of power by Gen. Charles De Gaulle provides both him and France a great opportunity. For France it is a chance to climb out of the morass of indecision, frustration, factionalism and irresponsibility that has beset her ever since she was freed from the Nazis. For De Gaulle the door is open through which he can pass to true greatness.

Unfortunately, it also provides the means by which France's ruin may be made complete.

De Gaulle is one of France's truly great heroes; his refusal to submit to Hitler's legions at a time when many of his countrymen were cynically making deals with their conquerors was an act of patriotism which placed him in the ranks of freedom's greatest defenders. When he raised the flag of Lorraine after France's defeat it served as a beacon of hope for all free men. Certainly his name must always kindle pride in the hearts of Frenchmen and those who have loved France.

After the war France made two great errors — she refused to abandon her discredited parliamentary system which places a premium on party irresponsibility and factionalism, and she insisted on acting like the great power she once was but is no longer. Watching from the sidelines, De Gaulle recognized the first error but has seemed all too ready to go along with the second, even to compound it.

In many ways De Gaulle reminds us of our own Gen. Douglas MacArthur; he has many of the same qualities of greatness, and the same weaknesses which undermine that greatness. Like MacArthur he permitted himself to become identified with a minority of extremely conservative political leaders who have hoped to use his name to force their economic, social and political views on the country. But again like MacArthur, while he has showed political naivete in this, he has refused to become an instrument of totalitarianism. When he announced that he would never take power in France except by constitutional means he swept away with one stroke the danger of a coup d'etat that would spell the end of political liberty in France.

We do not think a majority of the French people want De Gaulle in power; certainly they do not want the country run by the paratroop generals who have revolted against the Paris government. But when a nation's political system becomes as ineffectual and demoralized as has France's in recent years the underpinnings of democracy are loosened and a vacuum is created which can only be filled by some kind of power. Under these circumstances we may be thankful that the vacuum is being filled by a general who insists on following constitutional procedure.

Where France goes from here depends almost entirely on one man — De Gaulle. If he rises to his opportunity France may yet save her self-respect and her freedoms; if he falls victim to the emotions of unrestricted nationalism and personal arrogance he will lead France into tragedy which might strike a blow at the entire free world's defense against Red aggression. What France needs today is not a Napoleon or a Petain but a Churchill — conservative, proud, nationalistic, but fiercely loyal to institutions that provide real freedom for her people.

Competition in Newsgathering

The Justice department has announced it will take a close look at the merger of United Press and International News Service to see if any violation of the anti-trust laws has occurred. It is, of course, the department's responsibility to investigate any possible violation of the law; but if it should decide that a violation has occurred here and if the courts should agree, then something is wrong with the law.

For many years there have been only three major newsgathering organizations in this country: The Associated Press (AP) which is a non-profit cooperative owned by its newspaper members, United Press (UP) and International News Service (INS) which were private-for-profit corporations. Ever since the Supreme Court in 1945 decided the AP must offer membership to any newspaper that wants it and can pay the freight, in a decision that was supposed to foster more competition in the newspaper business, the UP and INS have found the going steadily tougher. It has been no secret among newspapermen in the last couple of years that the UP has lost some of its major customers and that if the trend were to continue its corporate life might be in danger. INS always has been the smallest of the wire services and never has really been in serious competition with the other two.

It was completely natural, therefore, that UP and INS should decide to join forces in an effort to provide some real competition for the monolithic AP. The merger has somewhat similar characteristics to those of Nash and Hudson, and Studebaker and Packard, in the auto field; the competition simply became so rough that the little fellows had to get together if they wanted to stay in the game.

An antitrust law that would prohibit such mergers obviously would destroy competition rather than create it. Although the Post-Crescent is and always has been an AP newspaper, we recognize that healthy competition is as important in the newsgathering business as in any other and we welcome the creation of the new United Press International which we hope will give the AP a good run for its money.

About Expense Accounts

The legislative committee which is considering changes in the rules affecting state employe and officer expense accounts is wasting its time if it believes one of the current proposals will get any support from the people.

Present law requires the filing of some kind of proof of disbursement before the auditors will approve a claim for expenses of the investigator who travels from Madison to Superior, or the professor who goes to a convention in Kansas City.

For reasons not altogether clear, a staff report from the bureau of budget and accounts suggests that such documentary proof be waived and that each department head make his own decision about the reasonableness of the reimbursement claim of his subordinate.

This is manny. Aside from the fact that the U. S. Bureau of Internal Revenue, in highly publicized rulings that these legislators evidently have ignored, has insisted on proof of disbursement before expenses will be honored for tax deduction purposes of everyone, public or privately employed, there is the practical fact that some public agencies are so big that there is no reasonably efficient way for an auditor to examine the reasonableness of an expense claim.

Some of the larger agencies may have hundreds of men in the field at one time. Can an accountant in Madison rule on the legitimacy of the reimbursement vouchers of each of them, without some kind of proof being offered?

There has been no demand for this change that we know about. The State Employees association is about as vigilant in translating the grievances of civil servants as any dues payer could ask. It has not complained. From whence this strange proposition?

As for the idea that the state should pay for the expenditures its servants claim they incurred for tipping in hotels and stations and restaurants, the best testimony we can offer is in the form of a roll call in the state Senate only about a year ago. A pretentious state senator, claiming that he was losing money because the state wasn't repaying him for his tips, introduced a bill to make the matter right. He was virtually laughed out of the chamber. The majority of the Senate had a pretty reliable appreciation of the sentiments of constituents.

Story Erred on Point of Catholic Dogma

Editor, Post-Crescent:

In reference to an article describing the recent Diocesan Holy Name rally featured in the Post-Crescent May 26, may I offer a correction? The reporter states "It was held in conjunction with the centennial anniversary of the Blessed Virgin Mary's appearance to a French peasant girl from whom apparitions came the Catholic dogma of the immaculate concept of Christ."

This is a serious mis-statement and I do not hesitate to object to an obviously well-intended write-up, were this point not also a possible source of scandal for many readers not of our Faith. The fullness of Christ's teachings and precepts as committed to His Apostles, the "deposit of faith" (II Tim. 1:13-14), is certainly sufficient when attained to and followed, to lead men to salvation. The church has no power to change, to subtract or innovate any matter entrusted to her in this deposit. The church may and does teach explain, define, clarify, and disseminate these jealously-guarded truths of divine relation. Thus, if Catholics hold the Immaculate Conception to be a divinely-revealed doctrine, it must be found already in this deposit of the faith, the contents of which are found in Sacred Scripture and in Tradition (I Thess. 2:15). We hold that it is so found — implicitly but radically in scripture and explicitly in tradition. Here our Protestant friends will dissent but this note is not meant as a theological argument.

A few observations: No Catholic would deny the reality of noesis were he to deny Lourdes Fatima or other similar apparitions or private revelations (subsequent to the Apostolic age). In my opinion he would, however, be imprudent and illogical in the face of palpable and verifiable evidences. If Lourdes be true, then it is an approbation of a constant and unbroken Christian belief, and obviously not the cause or source of this doctrine. Why do I say this? Mathematical truths — Pius IX officially defined the Immaculate Conception in 1854. The events at Lourdes took place in 1858. Rev. Richard Gusdorf Little Chute

Here Is an Exterior View of the Grignon home at Kaukauna which recently was the subject of an editorial in the Chilton Times-Journal reprinted below.

What Others are Saying

Private Group Should Take Over Grignon Home, Manage It Properly

From Chilton Times-Journal

Last summer, and the summer before, the Times-Journal each week described briefly one of Wisconsin's historic homes and noted how it could be visited. In this issue, under the heading "Sights to See?" The feature is resumed for the third summer.

The historic homes, some of them mansions still, even by today's uncertain standards, are fascinating for everyone to visit, but most particularly so for children. Inside them our exciting pioneer days spring to life, and what was merely "history" becomes a real place. Children's lively imaginations can quickly people these old homes with the families that built them and lived in them — when our state was all wilderness, French fur traders, Indians, and dreams.

We are fortunate that this region contains some of the finest and best-restored examples of these homes. There are Tank Cottage and the Cotton House in Green Bay, and Wade House and Butternut House at Greenbush. But when we come to the Grignon House at Kaukauna we could wish for a great deal more.

Mess Inside

Grignon House, built on land deeded by the Indians in 1793, was built by Augustin Grignon, grandson of Charles de Langlade, on the old Portage Road along the river. It should be a jewel in our priceless collection. The last time we visited it, however, it was a mess inside, not at all decently decorated, and filled with a tasteless miscellany of junk.

Unless we have misunderstood, Grignon House is the property of Outagamie County, and there is no record in Wisconsin that a county board has ever been able to manage properly a historic property. Where such management is done right it is

This Is a Picture of the Home before the county purchased the property in the early 1930s and had it rebuilt.

Majority of People Ignorant of Red China Trends

BY ELMO C. WILSON
Director, World Poll

The inscrutable Chinese have baffled Western minds since the days of Marco Polo. The successful Communist revolution which ousted the Kuomintang government and effectively limited the number of Westerners entering the country has made the Chinese enigma greater than ever. To all intents and purposes, the Chinese people have been under as tight a Communist dictatorship as that of their Moscow tutors.

Ferment Continues

Nonetheless, there have been indications (some of them apparently carefully fostered by the Reds themselves) that political ferment continues. Chairman Mao's now famous suggestion that "a thousand flowers" would be allowed to bloom, was widely interpreted as a move toward more political freedom, even though the news out of Peking since that dictum has indicated short shrift for those who tried to bloom too far afield of the official party line.

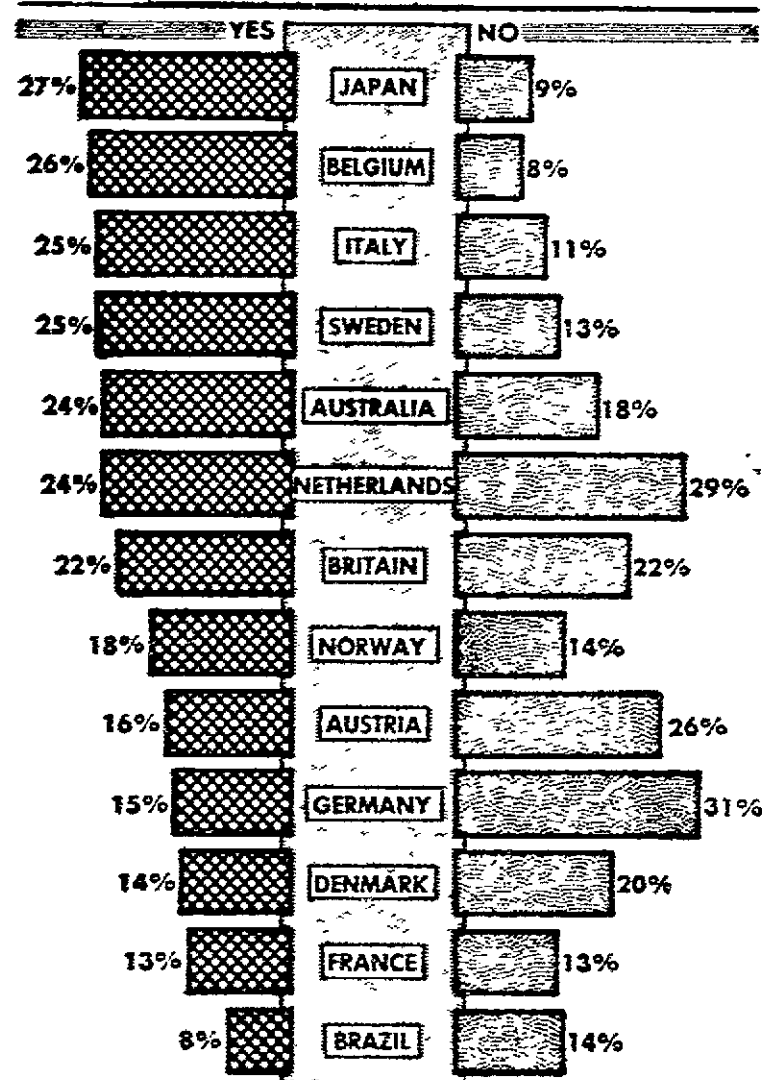

And as recently as May 5 the party meeting in Peking launched what it termed an "irreconcilable struggle against modern revisionism." Ostensibly aimed at Tito's aggressive independence of Russia at the Yugoslav party congress in April, the Chinese Reds were also telling their own people not to expect any miracles of freedom in the foreseeable future.

To determine to what extent foreign publics have been persuaded that China has been moving in the direction of increased liberalism and individual freedoms, World Poll asked the following question in thirteen countries:

"From what you know or have heard, have political conditions in Communist China changed much in the last year or so?" (If "Yes") "In what ways have conditions changed?"

In no country was there more than one adult in four who believed that political conditions in China had undergone a change. Countries in which the largest numbers felt a change had been taking place were: Japan, Belgium, Italy, Sweden, Australia, the Netherlands and Britain.

In five of the countries the proportion who denied that political changes had taken place in the past year was larger than the proportion who thought there had been changes.

Most are Ignorant

Reflecting the paucity of hard news out of China is the fact that in every country polled, half or more of the adult public — as high as 78 per cent in Brazil — expressed complete ignorance on the question

Excursion Planned

79 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of May 31, 1879.

On the 3rd of June there will be a steamboat excursion from DePere to Oshkosh and return. The excursion is to be given under the auspices of the DePere M. E. Church on the pleasant river steamer Brooklyn.

At 11 o'clock they expect to put in at Appleton to be joined by 60 couples of Methodists. The entire day is to be devoted to steamboating. A colony of gypsies passed through the city and encamped two miles below it, where the curiously inclined may have their futures foretold.

C. P. Riggs is progressing with his stone quarry in the river. As the quarry opens,

If neither Outagamie County nor the Fox River valley region has a society with the gumption to take over and properly restore the Grignon House, certainly there is enough money in the area to do the job — and perhaps someone like the late Mrs. Herbert Kohler who made such a splendid restoration of the Wade House at Greenbush.

Practical Plans

As for operating and maintaining such a house, we have in Wisconsin a practical plan — perhaps unique — that has never been bettered. It works at Greenbush, at the Dousman House in Prairie du Chien, and at the Dewey Home at Cassville. Once the building is decently restored, inside and out, it is decided to our State Historical Society Mrs. Kohler did this. Then, under a joint working arrangement, the Conservation Department takes care of the grounds and the Society keeps up and manages the house.

Grignon House stands beside one of our main arteries of tourist traffic. It should be a major attraction for paying visitors as well as a heritage of our past that everyone in this region can learn from and enjoy.

Two Appleton students were victorious and two were defeated in the Lawrence all-college club elections. Miss Betty Meyer and Norman Clapp were elected secretary and treasurer, respectively, while John Reeve and William Foote, were defeated for president and treasurer, respectively.

greater Chinese independence from Soviet Russia. Those who indicated a belief that conditions were changing explained it in terms such as the following:

"China has been moving closer to the West."

"They are making greater efforts to win respectability in the eyes of the world."

"There is more resistance against the current regime."

"There is a trend toward improved civil liberties."

"They are declaring their independence from Communist Russia."

"They have evolved a Communist system to suit Chinese conditions."

Closer to Russia?

Small segments who said conditions have changed in China in the last year felt that these recent changes took the Chinese even closer to Soviet Russia than they had been.

Thus, a large sector of the world remains ignorant of what is going on behind the bamboo curtain. Only a very small number believed that the political situation was becoming more relaxed in Communist China.

It's 44 Million Frenchmen Who Can't be Wrong

With the highest birthrate in Western Europe, France's population in 1957 increased another 434,700. Now it is more than 44 million Frenchmen who presumably can't be wrong. Actually, though there were 18.3 births per 1,000 inhabitants in 1957, only two-thirds of last year's population increase was due to excess of births over deaths, the other third resulted from immigration to meet the labor force needs of the country's burgeoning economy.

The vigorous French nation not only is growing, it is also growing younger, nearly 25 per cent of the French today are under 15 years old, 31.6 per cent under 20. At the same time, increased longevity has swelled the ranks of those over 65 to 11.5 per cent of the population (compared to 9.9 per cent before the war).

Due mostly to war losses, there are now 1,364,000 more women than men in France. But time, apparently, will heal this wound — there are today 250,000 more males than females in the under-twenty age group.

Boat Club Moves to Open Lock at Eureka

Goal Closer Than Ever, Official Says

BY JAY REED
Post-Crescent Outdoor Editor

Berlin — The Berlin Boat club's application to open and operate the government lock at Eureka is in the hands of the Corps of Engineers in Washington, A. T. Tellefson, club commodore, told the Post-Crescent today.

Opening of the lock, a matter of great importance to boating groups in the Fox River valley, appears closer now than at any time in recent years, Tellefson said.

If put into operation, the lock will open an additional 22 miles of navigable waterway on the upper Fox.

Cost of $25,000
If a permit is granted, the federal government will place the Eureka lock in operating condition, dredge the river below and above the locks and make other necessary repairs. Total cost of the project has been estimated by engineers at about $25,000. Presumably the government would pay the bill.

The application was presented to the corps by Rep. Melvin R. Laird, Seventh district congressman, following several days of conferences with local boating officials.

Tellefson said the permit could be granted in about 60 days provided there is no serious objection to the request. The Wisconsin conservation department, he said, might attempt to block the permit since it has, for some time, advocated closing and filling in the lock.

The Berlin man said, however, that Gov. Vernon Thomson has agreed to ask the department not to try and block the move. Tellefson said he has written Conservation Director Lester P. Voigt explaining the situation and asking the department's cooperation.

Saturday, May 31, 1958

Tellefson declared if the permit is granted the lock might be opened by mid-July or early August. The Berlin club, he declared, would have a lock operator on duty on weekends and holidays. His club, he said, would have full responsibility for operation of the lock.

G. K. Willecke, 1938 S. Bouten street, Appleton, chairman of the Winnebago Land Waterways committee, the organization which has led the fight for open navigation on the upper Fox, said he was delighted with the prospects afforded by the latest turn of events.

New Approach
"This seems to be a new approach to the problem entirely aside from the transfer of the upper Fox from federal to state governmental control. If the permit is granted," he continued, "the state will have to honor the federal permit thus leaving the lock open for all time."

Just what stand the conservation department will take is uncertain. The boating officials have said they have no desire to jeopardize plans of the department for hunting and fishing development. They feel, however, that boating interests have grown to such an extent their wishes should be given serious consideration.

Few Muskies Taken By Out-of-Staters

Non-Residents' Rate of Success Small, Survey by State Reveals

The noble muskellunge is a priceless boon to the big Wisconsin tourist industry and probably draws more non-resident sportsmen into Wisconsin for recreation than any other single attraction of the state.

But the "natives" of the upper Wisconsin muskellunge country harvest most of the prized species of Wisconsin fish.

More Skilled
About 65 per cent of all the muskies taken in the state last year, according to a recent poll of fish license holders, were taken by the local residents of the muskellunge region.

The inference is not necessarily that the residents are more skilled, although that is a probability. The residents are also enabled to fish over a longer period, are more familiar with the haunts of the fish, and are able to choose the most effective times for their fishing expeditions.

The department concluded from its study of the fishing license holder's survey results that the muskellunge is a useful lure to hold out to the residents of other states to persuade them to spend their holidays in Wisconsin.

Curiously, it also discovered that the more distant fisherman is comparatively more interested in the species than those living nearby.

Thus the fishermen of Ohio, a comparatively unimportant source of tourist income for this state, showed more concern about Wisconsin muskies than those of any other territory from which Wisconsin attracts forestry mill tax now used to non-resident anglers.

The inference is not necessarily that the residents are more skilled, although that is

State Conservationists Face Challenge of Crowded Field

More and More People Turning to Outdoors for Family Recreation

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The demand for outdoors recreational opportunities for an enlarging population enjoying ever more leisure will be one of the great challenges of the state conservation administration in the years immediately ahead.

The steadily mounting totals of fish and hunting license sales have hinted at the story for a long time. But now new pressures for public provision of recreational facilities—from camping grounds in the state parks to water access points for private boats—are making administrators of the Wisconsin conservation department apprehensive.

Swim, Fish
State Forester John Beale of the state department outlined the prospects in a recent address to a Midwestern group of conservation department officials.

"It's not difficult for those of us who have lived in rural areas or small towns or those lucky enough to live there still to understand the urge which must compel city dwellers to get off their 72 foot squares and out into the open where they can swim, fish, hunt, picnic, or just loaf," he said.

The successive reductions in the average man's work week, the revolution in transportation which has put the outdoors within reach of everyone, the rising standard of living which has permitted thousands to enjoy such one-time luxuries as boats and summer resorts and lake-side cabins spell ever more demands upon the outdoors and those who are its custodians, said the state officer.

Normal Requirements
"We simply have more people, living under more crowded conditions, who have more money, more time to spend it, easier means of moving about, and an apparently inexhaustible appetite for travel and the out-of-doors," he remarked.

Significantly, he added: "They have come to look up on public recreational facilities as necessities and normal requirements."

Beale's outline of the democratization of outdoors sports and travel is reflected in current Wisconsin political developments.

There has been an increasing volume of legislative attention to the problem of providing and financing outdoors recreational opportunities for the public.

Lake Access
Political parties have begun to pay heed, and to acknowledge the public demand with specific proposals in their platforms and in the speeches of their candidates.

Both of the major parties of Wisconsin this year are expected to stand, in their campaign platforms, on explicit proposals for an expanded state forests and parks program.

The issue of lake and river access, for pleasure boaters and others interested in water sports, has been tentatively raised in the legislature; it will also become more prominent, in the view of representative politicians.

The greater intensity of the use of outdoors resources, meanwhile, poses more serious problems for the agencies concerned about the conservation and management of natural resources as such.

Beale touched upon that concern of his colleagues also when he commented:

"A family of six wears out a home and everything in it twice as fast as a family of three. So also do 5,000,000 citizens grind down the grass and earth, catch the fish, kill the game, cut the woods, pollute the waters, twice as fast as 2,500,000," he said with a reference to the growing throngs of users of the Wisconsin outdoors, resident and non-resident.

A Time to Remember

BY JAY REED
Post-Crescent Outdoor Editor

Bands played lustily. Pink-cheeked children crept shyly forward and placed wreaths on marble monuments. And there were speeches.

Volleys of rifle fire crackled sharply across the land and, at last, men stood silent as the plaintive, melancholy tones of a bugle echoed back from hill to hill.

Memorial day was a time for remembering and one man remembered best of all. His name isn't important here for Anton Bush, conservationist, hunter and fisherman, knew nothing of personal importance.

More Than Killing
There's far more to this business of hunting and fishing than killing and here was a man whose outdoor activities warrant noting today for he was at once a war veteran and an outdoorsman who believed in giving back to the woods more than he had ever taken.

His was a war of slit trenches and barbed wire—the first "war to end all wars." He laid aside fishing gear and shotgun to take up a helmet, leggings and an 03.

The Argonne
He went away, as did many a young man, with the thought of returning once again to a green-tinged stream where walleyes wallowed in the swirling back water and a mink played its deadly game of cops and robbers with a grouse.

And he did come back. He hunted, fished and worked and each Memorial day took part in ceremonies honoring the war dead. In between he'd plant trees, feed pheasants, clear brush, work on watershed projects — always returning in full measure for everything taken from field or stream.

Chateau-Thierry, the Argonne, Flanders and Ardenne were a long way off but still he remembered when "taps" were played.

That's why this writer was particularly moved on Memorial day, 1958.

We are indebted to several persons for our love of the outdoors. Not the least of these was the man of whom we speak.

As a small boy we stood by his side in silent wonderment at the solemn ceremonies of Memorial day. We also stood by his side on a quiet slough bank while he showed us how to return to the water, unharm, a bluegill too small to bring home. He helped the writer when he was a boy in his efforts to trap muskrats impressing on us all the while the importance of preserving wildlife for another year. We hunted squirrels together.

He shook our hand and cried a little when we went off to war and he shook our hand when we returned.

As the toll of advancing years took the spryness from his legs we sat with him in the quiet of a summer evening in his trailer house near the woods alternately talking and listening to the throaty croaks of frogs and the murmur of feeding mallards in the rushes.

The writer was privileged to be one of the party last November when this man went on what was to be his final hunt for he died early in April just as the softness of spring was settling over the thickets and meandering sloughs of western Wisconsin.

Sadness, Too
This fall grouse will hide in piles of brush he provided for them and squirrels will play amongst trees he planted. A hunter will find the woods a little better and a fisherman will find his sport more enjoyable because this man chose to help make it so.

Yesterday the bands played and there were speeches and the bugle sounded forth its melancholy call.

Memorial day is still a time for remembering.

It's time for sadness, too

Buenos Aires — A bulldog named Rin-Tin-Tin lived up to his name Thursday. He routed three robbers and saved the post office 300,000 pesos—$750.

The holdup trio had locked up the employees of a branch post office and were trying to open the safe when Rin-Tin, the superintendent's pet, trotted in and attacked.

The robbers fled but piled up their getaway car and police caught them. The post office safe contained 300,000 pesos.

Fish Program Up for Review by Commission

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — A full dress review of all phases of the fisheries program of the Wisconsin conservation department will be held here on Tuesday afternoon, May 13, and the public is invited.

The conservation commission will hear reports at length from the various administrators and technicians in the fisheries division.

When the plan for such a session was announced some weeks ago, some publicity described it as a planned "investigation" of the state fish management programs, and suggesting that it was punitive in purpose.

Conservation Director Lester

Voigt says there is nothing to that. Properly described, he said, the meeting will be a "symposium."

The session will be held as a prelude to the regular monthly business meeting of the commission on the following day.

Wide publicity was given to the original invitation of the commission to the public to submit inquiries to the department staff in advance of the session called to review fisheries programs and results.

Little Response
There has been little response thus far.

Department men are expected to report in detail on new techniques in the propagation and planting of fish and in habitat improvement programs. The commission has significantly eased fishing regulations over a period of years and there also will be an attempt to appraise the results of such relaxed harvesting policies.

Lemon Rind Boat Rigged for Sailing in Bathtub or Pan

BY CAPPY DICK

Next time you have lemonade at your house, ask permission to cut the lemons a certain way so you can use the rinds to build a fleet of sailboats. By cutting carefully you can save all the pulp and juice for the lemonade.

The sailboats will somewhat resemble the ships of Columbus.

A meat skewer is the mast in this lemon boat.

Put the lemon boat in a pan of water. The boat will float. The sail will catch the wind and the boat will sail.

Cut the lemon lengthwise, but well above the center as shown by the dotted line in Figure 1. Round the cut downward slightly on both sides. Dig out the pulp and juice.

A meat skewer, which you can get at the butcher shop, will make a good mast. Cut a small piece of cardboard to the shape of the inside of the lemon, but smaller than the opening in the rind. Punch a hole in this cardboard about one-third of its length from one end (Figure 2). Press the cardboard into the rind as far as it will go. The hole should be about half way to the bottom.

Fit the mast of the boat into the hole in the cardboard, but first equip it with a paper sail two by three inches in size. Affix the sail as in Figure 3, then stick the end of the mast through the cardboard, sinking it slightly into the lemon rind so it will remain upright. The lemon ship is then ready to sail in the bathtub or a big pan.

Wega Graduates Told to Make Life's Decision

Weyauwega—W. M. Hanson, Clintonville, told Weyauwega High school graduates that their time to make decisions was now.

He said, "Now is the time to plan for the future. And while we are planning be mindful—keenly aware of the many wonderful things that are ours to enjoy every day. Usually we wait until middle age or our declining years to enjoy the commonplace things."

Fifty-six seniors participated in the commencement exercises Tuesday evening in Gerold's Opera House.

Judith Koehler and Charles Beaman, valedictorian and salutatorian, used the class motto "We've walked to the crossroads together, we journey on alone" as the theme for their talks.

Musical selections on the program were a vocal solo by Kenneth Koehler, accompanied by Mrs. Carlton Cheek, and a trombone solo by Kenneth Koehler, accompanied by Mrs. L. L. Taylor.

E. J. Hill, superintendent of schools, presented medals to the two top honor students. He also introduced the eighth grade graduates and their teacher, Mrs. Gladys Rieck. Hill presented the high school graduates to Doyle Springer, president of the board of education, for their diplomas.

The Rev. Pryor T. Smith offered the invocation and benediction. Mrs. Taylor played the processional and recessional music.

Judy NaGreen was named winner of the Bauer merit award. As winner she received a piece of luggage Monday evening during class night activities.

Parade, Services Mark Appleton Memorial Day

March Down College Avenue Old-Fashioned Kind; Feet Set Tapping, Eyes Glistening

BY DAVID APKER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

With blare of trumpets, tread of marching feet, flash of flags, colorful uniforms and solemn ceremonies the city of Appleton honored its war dead in Memorial day events Friday morning.

The parade down College avenue and through town to Riverside cemetery was of the old-fashioned variety—the kind that sets feet tapping, makes eyes glisten a bit and sets heads a little higher when the last marching unit has gone by.

First in formation was a color guard of armed forces recruits in army green, navy blue, the deep gold, blue and red of the marine corps and sky blue of the air force.

Old Glory, carried by navy recruiter Howard Waggoner, snapped proudly in the morning air.

Behind the color guard came parade marshal Capt. Joseph Kerrigan and his staff.

First musical marching unit to swing down the avenue behind the marshal was the Appleton City band, playing traditional and well-loved martial airs.

Marching behind the band were Company D, 127th Infantry regiment, and Company A, 426th Infantry regiment, of Wisconsin's famed 32nd National Guard division.

Next were members of Appleton's navy reserve unit. Following the reservists were two weapons carriers and four stolid 2½-ton army trucks—the hard-working "deuce-and-a-halfes" well known to many a former GI.

AHS Band

Stepping smartly along at the head of the second march division was the Appleton High school band, which combined music with a few fancy drill steps.

The remainder of the second division contained multi-colored new autos and military sedans carrying Mayor Clarence Mitchell, Judge Oscar Schmiede, speaker at memorial services at Riverside cemetery, flower girls, Women's Relief corps, Reeve circle of the D.A.R., Gold Star Mothers, United Spanish War veterans and auxiliary, Disabled Veterans, Military Order of the Purple Heart and auxiliary, American Legion auxiliary and Girl Scouts.

Leading the third march division was the Sons of the American Legion "Americanos" Drum and Bugle corps. Dressed in Mexican motif with red hats, black trousers, white silk shirts and red sashes, the corps sent its march music resounding down the avenue.

Drill Team

Next came the American Legion "Brass Hats" drill team, smartly attired in gold uniforms, behind the drill team marched Harvey Pierre post veteran of Appleton's Company A, 150th machine gun battalion, later moved to Minneapolis and finally to Wisconsin Rapids, but hasn't missed the local Memorial day march since 1918.

Bellew is a member of the Rainbow Division Veterans' association national executive board and past national vice president and past state president of the association.

He counts Appleton's parade as "one of the best." Parade Marshal Capt. Joseph Kerrigan, has 35 Memorial Day parades to his credit. Drum Major Andrew J. Schiltz completed his 34th parade.

General chairman of the Memorial Day program was Donald Manier. Jerry Arens was co-chairman. Assistant parade marshals were Chief Warrant Officers George Kerrigan and Orme Stach, of the national guard.

Other officers for the event were Howard Waggoner, secretary, Mayor Clarence Mitchell, treasurer, Fred Gehrke program chairman, Edward Kies, transportation, George Knister, director at cemetery, Thomas Weber, chapel arrangement, and Frank Comella, music.

Divorcee, Beau Have Different Ideas on Disciplining Her Son

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN: I'm a divorcee with two teenage children. Life has been a struggle and it's a miracle that I've been able to keep my family together with no help from my ex-husband.

Last year I met a man who's never been married. He has many fine qualities and could make a nice home for me and my children. But I'm worried about his attitude toward my son, age 14. He says the boy is a smart-aleck punk who needs a good thrashing.

My son isn't hard to handle. He may be a little mouthy but he's not a delinquent. I've never resorted to physical force to make my children behave. I've found it's more effective to deprive them of their privileges.

I don't want to break up with this man, but I'm afraid he may be hard on my boy. This situation has me very upset. What do you advise?—UNDECIDED

The time to get this settled is NOW. It is extremely important that the manner of discipline be agreed upon by both parents. When children sense a split in the dike they learn to play off one parent against the other and the result is total war.

A well-placed hand (at the seat of the problem) can be effective, but this must be part of the early training or it is useless. A first "thrashing" from a step-father at the age of 14 would create violent hostility in the boy.

Tell your friend you can't marry him unless he agrees to keep his hands off. Explain he may exercise discipline by withholding privileges since that is the established pattern—but no thrashing.

DEAR ANN: I went with a boy for seven months. I'm 18 and he's 20. Everything was fine until he bought a second-hand car. Then he started to come over every night and my folks didn't like it.

One evening last week he came by and beeped the horn. My dad got very angry and said I couldn't leave the house until Jim came to the door like a gentleman and asked for me.

Well, Ann, Jim sat out there and leaned on that horn for one solid hour. The neighbors complained, two on the phone and one in person. My father finally went out and told Jim to get going and not to show his face around our house in the future. My dad says I can't have any more to do with him. I'm very unhappy. What shall I do?—EMMA

If you're lucky you may never hear from this fellow again. A boy of this type can only mean bad news. His childish compulsion to beep the horn for a solid hour should be sufficient warning. A boy who doesn't respect a girl enough to go to the door and ask for her, doesn't deserve her company. Your dad is right—and good riddance.

DEAR ANN: My brother is married to a girl from the deep south. She has an accent so thick you could cut it with a knife. It used to be cute, but now, after six years it's getting on my nerves.

I've just about made up my mind the next time she says "yaww" and offers to "carry me home" (she means drive me in her car) I'm going to tell her I can't leave the house until she speaks in plain old northern language like the rest of us. I have suspected for a long time that she's hanging on to her southern accent because she wants to be different. What is your opinion?—DANNYANKEE

DEAR DANNYANKEE: Your sister-in-law will never be talking "like the rest of you" no matter how long she lives up north. This is as impossible for her as it would be for you to lose your "northern accent" if you moved down south.

Some of her honey-drip expressions, however, could be dropped if she made an effort. The next time she offers to "carry you home" tell her thanks a lot but you think it'd be easier on everybody if she drove you in her car.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kussmann

Appleton Couple Marks Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kussmann, 849 E. Frances street, observed their 50th wedding anniversary on Tuesday. They were married May 27, 1908, in the St. John's Lutheran church at Marion, by the late Rev. E. R. Kraeff. All six of the wedding attendants are still living and are: Otto Kussmann, and Mr. and Mrs. Emil Polzin of Marion, Wisconsin; Mrs. Francis Hoelzle of St. Paul, Minnesota; Mrs. Ed Wulk, Glendale, California; and Mrs. Arthur Kussmann, Los Angeles, California.

Kussmann was born June 3, 1883, in the Town of Dupont, Waupaca county, near Marion. Mrs. Kussmann was born September 13, 1883, in Union, Waupaca county. After their marriage they resided on a farm until April, 1957, when they retired and moved to Appleton, where they are living now.

The Kussmanns have two daughters: Romaine, at home in Appleton; and Mrs. Delphine Aft of Clintonville, Wisconsin.

The anniversary was celebrated on Sunday, May 25, with a buffet dinner at the Odd Fellows Hall, and open house at their home afterward. About 125 relatives and friends were guests.

Mrs. Earl Fetting, Appleton, sang two solos at the dinner party, which were "Through The Years," and "Smilin' Through". Raymond C. Ambelang, Milwaukee, was the master of ceremonies.

Gilbert Carl Helke, 46, of Rudolph, died Friday in an ambulance on the way to a hospital after the car in which he was the passenger blew a tire and left Highway 26 a mile and a half north of Juneau.

Robert Drinkman, 20, of Glenwood City drowned in a Dunn county gravel pit Friday while wading.

His brother, Fred, 16, told officers he attempted to save Robert, but that both were poor swimmers. The gravel pit is located near Connorsville.

Funeral services will be at 1:30 Monday afternoon at the First Presbyterian church, after the service with burial in the Kelso cemetery, Kaukauna. Friends may call at the Jan. sen Funeral home, Kimberly, after 7 o'clock tonight.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Brei is survived by her mother, Mrs. Augusta Halsey, Appleton; six daughters, Mrs. Martin Awishus, St. Louis, Mo., Mrs. Edward Cook, Arizona, Mrs. Norman Halloran, Scott Field, Ill., Mrs. Lloyd Zuelke, Brillion, and Nancy and Jane Treichel, at home; three sons, Carl and Robert Treichel, Appleton, and Ronald Treichel, Menasha; two brothers, Norman Lambie, Arizona, and Jack Lambie, address unknown; three sisters, Mrs. Joseph Radosta, Milwaukee, Mrs. Viola Nuehon, Alaska, and Mrs. Helen Dewall, Appleton; and 26 grandchildren.

Except for the brief thunderstorm in the late afternoon, Memorial day was pleasant in the Fox Cities. The maximum temperature was 80. The overnight low dropped to 55 and today under the heavy overcast the temperature at 10:30 this morning was 68.

The cloudy, muggy weather with the promise—or threat—of rain or thunderstorms is to be the bill of weather fare for the weekend.

A short thunderstorm Friday afternoon brought .11 inches of precipitation to the area. The heaviest rainfall in the Great Lakes area was reported at Madison, when 1.39 inches fell.

Fig Marigold

Indoor Gardening

Fig Marigold a Succulent Plant With Bright Flowers

BY KATHERINE B. WALKER

Mesembryanthemum multi-radiatum not only has a cumbersome proper name but also an abundance of common ones; it is known variously as Sun Rose, Pink Waxplant, and Fig-marigold, among others.

Most catalogs use the first two, but since reference works generally refer to them as Fig Marigolds, we will use that name here. Whatever you call them, these succulent plants which bear huge, bright pink, daisy-like flowers are an unusual addition to any indoor garden.

Beauty Short Hair Goes With New Style

By Marian Matthews

For the girl who's gone all out for the chemise silhouette this spring a lot of things must follow. Though shorter hemlines and accessories can help emphasize this new look, it also demands a correct hair style.

James Caesar, hair stylist of New York City, says it must be short, soft and "always in shape."

A relaxed soft cut is developed by Caesar by draping the hair like fabric. It is arranged in deep waves that ruffle softly out and up on the cheek. Bangs are brushed outward from the crown of the head into wispy tendrils slightly on the diagonal across the brow. This is the young look so smart with the chemise. In the back, hair is brushed smoothly into on-the-slant waves that end in a tiny turned-up ruff just at the nape of the neck.

To make hair easy to handle and capable of keeping its new soft contours the cut is very important. A partial permanent might be helpful, too.

Highlight the new hair-do that you may have adopted by wearing earrings or the new long rope necklaces. Choose some of the new colors to flatter your complexion and eyes.

Tell Opening of Bridge Season At Riverview

The ladies day bridge group at Riverview Country club will have its "warm-up" session on Tuesday in the new River room of the club. Regular play will begin on June 10.

On the bridge committee are Mrs. L. R. Watson, chairman, Mrs. Glenn Arthur, Mrs. Vilas Gehin, Mrs. W. Arthur Homes, Mrs. Bernard Hesselton, Mrs. Chriss Larsen, Mrs. Earl Miller, Mrs. Walter Rugland, Mrs. Leo Schubart, Mrs. Carl Schroeder, and Mrs. Al Wilkins.

Hardwood Firm, Carpenter Union Reach Agreement

Workers to Get 5 Cent Wage
Boost; on Strike Since May 2

Neenah — Employees of Hardwood Products corporation, on strike since May 2, will return to work at 7 o'clock Tuesday morning, marking a settlement of their strike.

Company officials and the bargaining committee of Local 630 of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners met in a 1 1/2 hour session with John Lacey, federal conciliator, Friday morning. An agreement was reached on the terms of a new contract which will be effective Tuesday.

When negotiations started early in March, the union requested an 8 cents an hour

5-Cent Increase
The labor dispute was settled when the company offered 5 cents an hour increase plus or from Milwaukee, Friday morning. An agreement was reached on the terms of a new contract which will be effective Tuesday.

The new agreement puts the starting rate for non-skilled employees at $1.50 an hour and the beginning rate for skilled employees at $1.69 an hour. The contract will run for one year. A few employees will be needed Monday to ready the plant for operation and full production will be resumed at 7 o'clock Tuesday morning.

The company, a manufacturer of custom-made doors and moldings, employs about 220 production workers.

Blood Donor Program Reduces Costly Hours

Fluid Quickly Available, but New List of Neenah — Blood for emergency cases is now made available swiftly and surely through the Red Cross blood bank program, but this was not always true, according to Jerry Bump and Carl Snyder, Twin City blood recruitment chairman.

As an example of how things were a few years ago, they tell this story: "We have an emergency case, nurse. This patient needs blood. Get some donors quickly!" a doctor says. The nurse goes to the card

Boys at Waukesha to circuit court. The boys were ordered committed to the state school by Judge S. J. Luchsinger by Neenah police, who had to shoot the truck tires to stop the offense. The petitions were filed Thursday afternoon in circuit court.

Titans Come Up With Two Big Innings in 7-3, 9-4 Verdicts

Menasha — The Menasha Macs committed 14 errors in two games here Friday afternoon and therein lies the story. They dropped a doubleheader to Coach Eric Kitzman's Oshkosh State college nine, falling 7-3 in the first game and 9-4 in the second.

Two five-run innings, one in each game, turned the tide for the Titans. The collegians broke a scoreless tie with a five run outburst in the fourth inning of the opening contest and they snapped a 4-all deadlock with five runs in the seventh of the second game. The Macs chipped in with six errors in the first and eight in the second.

The Menashans were limited to three hits in the opening game by Len Pubanz, only one of which was a real solid blow. They collected 10 in the second test off Al Harke.

Score 5 in 4th

Jack Konetzke started on the hill for the Macs in the opener and he gave way to Ken Konetzke in the fifth. The latter started the second game, Ron Dibelius relieved in the second, Gene Gries took over in the third and Tom Konetzke came on in the seventh and finished.

Oshkosh scored five times on four hits, a walk and three Mac errors in the fourth inning of the initial test. The winners collected their other two markers in the fifth on Ken VanderVelden's homer with Bob Maulick on base.

Blanked Until 7th

The Macs were blanked on two hits by Pubanz until the seventh. The combination of a walk, John DeYoung's hit and four Oshkosh errors accounted for their three runs.

Oshkosh scored four times in the second inning of the second game on singles by Terry Tighe, Bob Karisny, Ken Klein two walks and Al Harke's double.

Casey Nelson, captain of Old Ironsides, and teammate Russ Lyons each nailed down 13 points as did Clarence Elmgren, Resource leader.

Foxes Nudge Bluejays, 8-7, On Van Dyke's Double in 9th

The Foxes' Reception Line Forms to greet home run-hitting Carlos "Potato" Pascual in the second inning of Friday's game against Green Bay at Goodland field. Bob Van Dyke, who in the ninth drove in the tying and winning runs of an 8-7 thriller, shakes Pascual's hand. Pascual hit his second homer of the day in the sixth. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Pascual Hits Pair of Home Runs

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

The Fox Cities Foxes responded to Manager Pete Suder's pre-game vocal barrage Friday afternoon with a long-ball bombardment that scuttled Green Bay, 8-7, at Goodland field.

Suder's "pep talk" was inspired by the Foxes' recent showing in general (12 losses in 16 games) and their inept Thursday night performance (a 16-2 loss to Green Bay) in particular.

The tough Bluejays had no antidote for the Foxes' display of determination and extra base power. The Foxes' Memorial day cannonading—an output of three homers and three doubles that delighted 955 customers—brought them from behind four times.

Van Dyke Ends It
Bob Van Dyke, one of the leading RBI-men in the Three-I league, capped the jackpot rally with a 2-run double in the ninth. His smash over the center fielder's head gave the Foxes a 2-1 edge in their first home series against Green Bay, boosted them over the 500 mark (7-6) for the home season and lifted them out of the league cellar.

The nightcap of the scheduled home-road doubleheader, was postponed last night because of rain at Green Bay.

Van Dyke, the slugging infielder-outfielder from Holland, Mich., has driven in 28 runs in the first 30 games of the season.

Van Dyke's sidekicks in the heavy artillery department were Carlos "Potato" Pascual and Ed Raczynski. Pascual powered a pair of lead-off home runs, hit a single and walked twice in five appearances. Raczynski, who had batted in only two runs for the season prior to Friday, erupted with a solo homer and a 2-run double.

Pair of Gambles
Green Bay ripped off a pair of 2-run homers—by Andy Vanderveelde and the pestiferous Gene Wallace—which, until the ninth, seemed capable of neutralizing the value of Foxes' three circuit clouts.

The Foxes' prize ninth-inning package—their fourth 2-run bundle of the game—contained timely hitting and a pair of gambles. Don Dantoni started it with a hit to short right. He was sacrificed to second by "Tex" Taylor. At this juncture, Suder went to the unorthodox.

Webb Takes Split Decision From Beecham

Miami Beach, Fla.—Ellsworth Webb stood off a steady, battering attack by Miami's Jimmy Beecham Friday night to get back on the winning path in his campaign for a middle-weight title fight.

Webb, former national collegiate champion from Chicago now rates No. 6 in his division, was a 3-1 favorite over Beecham, but he faced rugged going all the way before winning a split decision in the 10-round battle in Miami Beach auditorium.

There were no clinches in the nationally televised fight. Both judges voted for "Split." Gus Jacobson gave it to him 97-95 and Carl Gardner favored him 98-94. Referee Cy Cottfried saw it as 98-95 for Beecham.

Webb, who weighed 160, scored his 27th victory against three defeats. Beecham, 161, now has a career record of 23 wins, six losses and one draw.

Hamburg, Germany—Willie Hoepner, 174, Germany, awarded decision over Artemio Calzavara, 174, Italy. (Calzavara disqualified for butting in sixth round; Hoepner wins European light-heavyweight title.)

Braves Gain Ground In Split With Pirates

Pittsburgh —(AP)—Pittsburgh unloaded an 18-hit attack Friday and won the second game of a doubleheader with Milwaukee, 12-6, after the Braves took the opener, 7-4, on a ninth-inning rally. Batters for both teams had a big time of it in the second contest. Pittsburgh scored four runs in the seventh inning and Milwaukee players swatted four home runs.

Milwaukee's victory and a double loss to St. Louis by the National League leading San Francisco Giants moved the Braves within one game of first place.

Error By Thomas
An error by Frank Thomas of Pittsburgh opened the way for four Milwaukee runs in the ninth inning of the opener before a Memorial day crowd.

Felix Mantilla, filling in for injured second baseman "Red" Schoendienst, got four of the Freedom could gain a first place tie with the combine by handing LC-K its first setback.

4 Pitchers Used

Vanden Heuvel, a league veteran, has allowed a total of 13 hits and two runs in two straight route-going performances. The righthander lost his first start.

LC-K has used four pitchers in rolling to its three wins—righthanders Bob Schmidt and Al Harke and lefties Faye Mehlberg and Clete Wynboom.

Schmidt, a strong thrower last season who has pocketed two of the wins thus far, will probably get the starting nomination.

LC-K has collected 35 runs in its three triumphs.

Another important FRV clash pairs second place co-occupants Kaukauna and Manitowoc at Manty. The Klubbers got a 7-hitter from Joe DeBruin two weeks ago and a 3-hitter from Gerry Hopfensperger last week-end and either could open the game.

John Strzyzewski, who has copped two of three starts, is Manty's likely hurler.

The defending champion Menasha Macs are to welcome Harrison in a makeup game to night and then visit Oshkosh Sunday.

Dibelius Likely Starter

Ron Dibelius, who has handled all the Macs' hurling against league foes, will probably start one of the two games. "Bud" Koehnke, who hurled a no-hit, no-run victory over Harrison last season, could get a shot at a repeat of that feat tonight. Other Mac

Horace Garner, Rick Rogers Each Hits No. 12

By the Associated Press

The home run derby in the Three-I league developed into a 3-way tie Friday night among Horace Garner of Cedar Rapids, Rochester's Rick Rogers and Frank Howard of Green Bay. Each has 12 four-baggers. Garner marked up No. 12 but it was of little avail as the Raiders lost to league-leading Davenport, 16-8.

Rogers picked up another round-tripper but it, too, went for naught as Burlington beited Rochester, 9-5, for its sixth straight victory. Rogers had been benched for weakness against left-handed pitchers and his homer came in a pinch-hit role.

Howard earlier had set the home-run pace, adding his 12th Thursday night. But he slacked off Friday as Fox Cities beat Green Bay, 8-7.

Pat O'Connor Killed on 1st Lap of Race

BY DALE BURGESS

Indianapolis — (AP)—Jimmy Bryan, who now has won everything available in championship closed course auto racing, tonight will pick up a check for about $100,000 at a 500-mile race victory dinner saddened by the death of Pat O'Connor.

O'Connor died in his burning car on the first lap of the Memorial day classic Friday after the worst start in the 47-year history of the race.

Gets Away too Fast

So fouled up was the start, climaxed by the 15-car pile-up, that the speedway is almost certain to go back to the old conventional lineup that it abandoned last year.

Dick Rathmann, in the No. 1 starting position, got away too fast and was halfway around the track before anybody else, including Speedway Director Sam Hanks with the pace car, got started. His mates in the front line, Ed Elisian and Jimmy Reece, finally caught up with him and all three were running half a lap ahead of the field.

An extra lap was ordered in an attempt to straighten out the mess. The front row cars got into line, with the field straggling behind them, and the green starting light flashed on.

Dick Rathmann, the fastest 10-mile qualifier, was ahead going into the first turn. Elisian tried to pass him on the third turn and lost control. In an instant, that northeast corner of the track looked like a race car junk yard.

O'Connor, a handsome 29-year-old racing veteran from North Vernon, Ind., ran over the rear of the auto driven by Reece, a native Oklahoman now living in Indianapolis.

O'Connor's car overturned and burst into flames. The body was unrecognizable.

Appleton JCs Slate 2 Junior Golfing Events

Clinic to be Held June 9 at BDM; 27-Hole Tourney Set for June 23

The Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce will sponsor two golfing events for youths in June.

In cooperation with the management of the Butte des Morts golf club and area professionals, the Jaycees will conduct a junior golf clinic Monday, June 9, at BDM.

The 1958 Appleton Jaycee Junior golf tourney will be held Monday, June 23, at the Reid Municipal course.

The deadline for tournament entries is Wednesday, June 18.

The clinic is designed to tie in with the tournament and help the competitors sharpen their games for the June 23 competition. However, all boys in the Fox Cities—whether they enter the tourney or not—are being invited to attend the free clinic and receive instructions and personal help from area PGA pros. The clinic is open to junior golfers from Appleton, Menasha, Neenah, Kaukauna, Kimberly, Little Chute and Combined Locks.

Reservations for the clinics must be made in advance, and the deadline for reservations is Saturday, June 7. Reservations are to be made by phoning Bill Duwe, of the Appleton JCs, at RE 3-9180.

The staff of instructors will include Everett Leonard, "Cotton" Beavers and Doug Jetter, of BDM; Bob Below, Neenah Ridgeway, Jake Mathews, Appleton Riverview; and John Erickson, Menasha North Shore.

27 Holes of Play

The Appleton JC tournament—which will consist of 27 holes of medal play—is open to junior golfers from Appleton, Kimberly, Kaukauna, Little Chute and Combined Locks, according to Duwe, tourney chairman.

Eligibility is limited to boys who will not have reached their eighteenth birthdays by Aug. 15.

The tourney entry fee is $1.85, which includes the green fee. Entry blanks are available at Reid Muni, the Berggren and Pond sport shops in Appleton and the Egan Sport shop, Kaukauna.

Winners of the top three places will receive trophies and will earn places in the state tournament to be held June 30 at Manitowoc. The top four in the state will compete in the thirteenth international tourney at Tucson, Ariz., Aug. 18-23.

Last year, more than 35,000 golfers, representing 1,100 communities, took part in the nationwide junior golf program of the Jaycees.

Vince Martinez

Has Weight Woes

St. Louis —(AP)—Vince Martinez of Patterson, N. J., may have trouble getting down to the 147-pound limit for his welterweight championship fight with Virgil Akims of St. Louis next Friday.

Bill Daly, Martinez' manager, would not say how much Martinez has to trim in the few remaining days. "It's nothing serious," Daly said.

History Abounds
In Sight, Homes
And Museums
Within easy driving distance of the Fox Cities lies history brought to life by persons interested in preserving the past of the community.
Relics of the oldest inhabitants of the state, the mound-building Indians, can be found in High Cliff State park on the east shore of Lake Winnebago and in Smith park at Menasha.
The mounds are the only evidence of the Indian stay here.
Since they never left artifacts, the tribes have remained a mystery to historians.
Historic Fox and Wolf
The storied Fox river and its canals are picturesque remanders of the area's history and stories about the mighty Wolf's history are legion in the waterfront communities.
The state historical society is doing yeoman work to preserve old buildings.
Green Bay has a mother lode of history within easy driving distance.
Oldest in State
In Union park is the oldest standing house in the state, the Tank cottage, built in 1776 and used as a military headquarters in the War of 1812.
The Fort Howard hospital and museum has a fine collection of early Green Bay items and is a good example of colonial architecture.
The Cotton house is a restored example of Jeffersonian architecture and was the home of Capt. John Winslow. It was built in 1840.
At Ripon is the little white school house in which the Republican party was born March 20, 1854.
In Kaukauna is the Grignon home, restored to preserve the 1830 home of Charles A. Grignon, the trader whose activities went far in settling the Fox
Cities area.
At the Grand Army home at King, a sightseer's must in itself, is the fine collection of war memorabilia in the Col.
Brosius Memorial museum.
The Grand Loggery, the home of James D. Doty, the territorial governor of Wisconsin, has been restored in Neenah.
In South park, Waupaca, is the Hutchinson home, a fine example of the 1850 era.

Two Injured In Accidents On Highway 41

County Patrol
Chief Expecting
Heavy Travel Sunday

Two persons received minor injuries in separate accidents Thursday on Highway 41 just north of Appleton. They were Donald Worden, 30, 2613 N. Locust street, Appleton, and Mrs. Royal Turrin, Milwaukee.

Worden was a passenger in a car driven by Donald J. Halbach, 19, route 3 Kaukauna, when it collided with one driven by Kenneth J. Derouss, 19, Rockford, Ill., at Highway 41.

Land M. Meade street. Worden received cuts on his right elbow.

Both cars were going east on 41 and collided when the Derouss auto started to pass and Halbach began a left turn onto Meade street. The Halbach car rolled over into the ditch.

Mrs. Turrin was a passenger in a car driven by her husband when it collided with another driven by Lynn M. Madden, 17, 125 N. Drew street, at 41 and N. Oneida street. She received a bruised left knee.

Both cars were going west on Highway 41. Madden told police he had his signal on for a left turn onto Oneida street and then changed his mind and made a right turn into a filling station. The Turrin car had already started a right turn into the station when the cars collided.

Capt. Ronald Decker, of the county patrol, said the peak holiday traffic was past for the beginning of the weekend. He expected it to begin again about noon Sunday. He indicated county officers would concentrate on keeping traffic moving on the main highways.

This Car Owned by James Wisner, who is living at the YMCA, was left parked in the northeast corner of the city parking lot behind the Congregational church on S. Appleton street Friday night. This morning it was found against a power pole headed down into Jones park. Police surmised that someone steered the car to its present location. They said it couldn't have gotten there without someone behind the wheel. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Around Home

The fire department Friday afternoon rushed into a dispute between neighbor women.

One had called to complain about the fire in the other's rubbish burner. Firemen found the burner too close to a garage and unattended. They put out the fire with a garden hose.

Chief Paul Neumann, head umpire in these matters, immediately issued orders the rubbish burner owner was to be reprimanded.

Then he toured the complainant's yard. You guessed it: Her rubbish burner also was too close to a structure and, although unused at the moment, showed signs of recent use. Another reprimand was ordered.

More talks with feuding neighbors are scheduled today.

Two young deer were seen browsing in the wooded area of Glenwood Acres Friday and many householders are wondering if the pair might be offspring of the doe that caused so much havoc in downtown Appleton earlier in the week.

The fawns seemed quite tame and came within a few feet of the E. B. Powell home, 1631 N. Racine street. They have brown coats and seem old enough to be on their own residents of the area reported.

Two Break-ins Net Burglars About $20

Break-ins at two Appleton beer distributing concerns overnight netted burglars only about $20, sheriff Donald J. Heinritz reported this morning.

Entered were Valley Beer Sales, just west of the city limits on College avenue, and Appleton Beverage company, 3001 W. Wisconsin avenue.

At Valley Beer Sales the burglars pried open the front door and knocked the dial off the safe, authorities said. When the dial was knocked off, a gas was released from within the safe. The sheriff said the thieves went outside until the gas cleared away.

They then returned and knocked the bottom out of the safe and got about $20. Valley Beer Sales is operated by Arthur W. Jones and Frank J. Nowak.

At Appleton Beverage company, entry was gained by forcing the door. The door of the safe had been left open by Malcolm Buck, a salesman with the company, the night before and no money was in the safe, it was reported. The burglars went through the safe's contents but took nothing.

Both break-ins are believed the work of the same party. Investigating were Sheriff Donald J. Heinritz and Sheriff's Lts. Jack Frenz and Jack Zuelzke.
